ONE PASS CLEANS UP!

Horse & Livestock Body Blade

Hollister, CA — Call it a squeegee, sweat scraper or anything you like, nothing works as effectively at drying off horses and livestock as well as the One Pass Water Blade. Originally developed for the automotive market back in 1996, the equine version takes all the genius of the first blade to an entirely new level. Completely safe, absolutely effective, the One Pass Horse & Livestock Body Blade is a must have for any tack trunk or grooming bucket.

“We took one of our most popular models of water blade, then consulted a few friends to make some key changes that make this the perfect tool for quickly getting wash water, sweat or whatever off your furry friends,” explains inventor Don Varner. “You can use it like a sweat scraper, but it’s totally safe and comfortable, unlike those rigid plastic or metal models.”

The pliable silicone blade is comfortable, hygienic and easy to clean. It glides right over sensitive areas, fly bites and other irregularities, easily removing the water without breaking a scab. The patented blade design curves to the profile of the animal's body, but it is equally effective on smaller areas like hocks or lower legs.

It can help reduce the risk of fungus infections due to moisture. Plus, it saves you time, which is a bonus in everybody’s world. The Body Blade skims sweat or water away in one pass, making it much more efficient than trying to towel dry a horse. And, unlike a dirty, soggy towel, the antimicrobial/antibacterial blade will not mold or mildew... simply rinse clean and toss it in your grooming bucket when you are done!

The durable nylon handle fits hands of all sizes comfortably. “It really is the easiest, most effective way to remove water, sweat, shavings and debris from your horse,” adds Varner.

About One Pass USA — One Pass's founder Don Varner is a professional innovator, inveterate tinkerer and legend in the automotive world. Hot rod enthusiasts might recognize him as the designer behind such famous custom 'Rods as El Matador, Silhouette and The California Star. Varner turned the custom world on its ear back in 1984 when California Star took top honors at the Grand National Oakland Roadster Show. Despite enormous controversy, Don's version of the classic 1927 Model T earned the title "World's Most Beautiful Roadster" and cemented his place in the automotive world. It was this kind of disruptive solution that brought the original Water Blade into existence, upending the car care world in the process. That sounds a bit dramatic, but take a look at how many copies have hit the market since and you'll see what we mean. When we released the first Water Blade in 1996, it was called the "Original California Water Blade" — now it's simply Original Water Blade. Don takes enormous pride in every product he designs, so you know if it bears the One Pass name, it's a game changer!
